

Honor Code Quiz

PLEASE ANSWER TRUE OR FALSE

1. Mercer's Honor System only applies to students in the College of Liberal Arts.
True                  False
2. It is an infraction of the Honor Code not to report an act of cheating or academic dishonesty.
True                  False
3. The responsibility of knowing what constitutes cheating rests solely on the student.
True                  False
4. Having someone read a paper in order to correct your grammar and spelling is not cheating.
True                  False
5. Students at Mercer may choose not to participate in the Honor System.
True                  False
6. Obtaining or giving information that is to be on a test, before the test is administered, is an example of cheating.
True                  False
7. Using reference material when not authorized by the instructor is an example of cheating.
True                  False
8. Citing a source is not necessary if you are paraphrasing.
True                  False
9. Lab partners may work together and share data and results.
True                  False
10. Mercer's Honor System is administered by the faculty and the students.
True                  False
11. If you see or know of an act of cheating or academic dishonesty, you may report it to your professor or to any member of the Honor Council.
True                  False

ANSWERS

1. Mercer's Honor System only applies to students in the College of Liberal Arts.
False "Honor System"
2. It is an infraction of the Honor Code not to report an act of cheating or academic dishonesty.
True "Honor Code" and "Procedures for Reporting Honor Code Violations"
3. The responsibility of knowing what constitutes cheating rests solely on the student.
True "What Constitutes A Violation of the Honor Code"
4. Having someone read a paper in order to correct your grammar and spelling is not cheating.
True or False "Laboratory & Referencing Procedures" ("The professor has the right to delineate what constitutes academic dishonesty ... in the classroom.")
5. Students at Mercer may choose not to participate in the Honor System.
False "Definition of Mercer Honor System"
6. Obtaining or giving information that is to be on a test, before the test is administered, is an example of cheating.
True "What Constitutes A Violation of the Honor Code"
7. Using reference material when not authorized by the instructor is an example of cheating.
True "What Constitutes A Violation of the Honor Code"
8. Citing a source is not necessary if you are paraphrasing.
False "What Constitutes A Violation of the Honor Code"
9. Lab partners may work together and share data and results.
False "Laboratory and Referencing Procedures"
10. Mercer's Honor System is administered by the faculty and the students.
False "Honor System"
11. If you see or know of an act of cheating or academic dishonesty, you may report it to your professor or to any member of the Honor Council.
False "Procedure for Reporting Honor Code Violations"

(This quiz was originally created by Dr. Anna Weaver, Foreign Languages and Literature.)